

City Health Officer Has Been Employed

APPOINTED BY CITY COUNCIL AND COUNTY MEDICAL BOARD (FILED YESTERDAY).

Howell Taken Charge Today and Makes Rounds Over Town, Flagging all Infected Houses. Town Has Been Without City Health Officer Two Or Three Months

Yesterday the city administration and the medical society of Houston met together. Dr. W. C. Howell has been duly elected city health officer and while the council has had no meeting to officially elect him it is understood that it will be done at the next meeting. Dr. Howell assumes charge of the office today. He will make house visits, and wherever he finds smallpox he will take proper measures to keep the disease from spreading. He will also place where he finds smallpox.

The town has been without a health officer two or three months since Dr. Howell resigned. He did not feel that he could continue the duties involved upon him as such an official for the salary the council had provided, and therefore quit.

The town, it seems, had some doubt about the law's giving them a right to raise the salary. Anyway, the thing has been in that shape since the resignation of Dr. Howell.

There were some who didn't thoroughly understand the situation who seemed to think that when the city appointed Policeman Hollins as health inspector, that he was supposed to act as city health officer.

It requires no thought of the matter to see what little service a man could be acting in that capacity if he were not a physician. He is not supposed to be able to diagnose smallpox, diphtheria and scarlet fever, and to know how best to keep the contagion from spreading.

The situation was considered grave as Dr. J. F. Orr of the State Health Department spent two or three days in the city trying to get the matter settled. He said he had even been told that he had been and the city today has a health officer for the first time in over 18 months.

The question with it has been in mind since it was first in mind.

Dr. Howell took charge today and made rounds over town, flagging all infected houses. The town has been without a health officer two or three months since Dr. Howell resigned. He did not feel that he could continue the duties involved upon him as such an official for the salary the council had provided, and therefore quit.

The town has not had a health officer for two or three months.

HUNTER PROTESTS HIS INNOCENCE

THINKS IT HARD THAT NEGRO GOES FREE WHILE HE FACES GALLIOWS

Savannah, Ga. Dec. 6. It would not be at all surprising to see the friends of J. C. Hunter, the convicted slayer of his wife, try to get a pardon for him. They may not ask Governor Blanton for the pardon, but they will probably ask his successor.

Boke Smith spoke very strongly in favor of pardoning Hunter if the negro John Coker, jointly indicted with him for the murder of Mrs. Hunter, was not convicted and yesterday Coker was acquitted.

The jury which deliberated on his case was out but a few moments when they turned the negro free. Hunter on the other hand is under sentence of death to be hanged on December 22. It is pretty sure that he will not hang, but whether he is to be pardoned or merely have his sentence commuted to life imprisonment is a question. Most likely the latter course will be pursued.

Hunter continues to protest his innocence and thinks it is pretty hard that the negro should go free and that he should be made to suffer imprisonment or death on the gallows.

REQUESTS ENGLAND TO ACT AS INTERMEDIARY

Washington, Dec. 6. Britain has made a direct appeal to Great Britain to act as intermediary in an effort to negotiate a settlement of the crisis with Russia, according to dispatches received from the United States. The progress of Russian troops toward Tcheran has been reported. Troops which are proceeding from Rostov toward Tcheran will be stopped outside the former city and held outside. It is said that there is no doubt that this will be done.

WOMAN WARDEN

NOT DROP ON HIM

Woman Warden Covers 'Bad Man' With Rifle, and He Obeyed Her Command—His Reputation Gone, Hunter Thinks He Will Move

Dothan, Ala.—The pride of a certain upper and "bad man" of this neighborhood is completely cast down, his spirit crushed to smithereens. After bluffing out most of the game warden and other peace officers generally, he has been arrested and brought into court by a woman.

There is no real reason why he should feel excessively humiliated. A very repeating rifle, loaded with jacketed bullets, will kill at fifty yards when a woman's finger presses the trigger as when the best shot in the plains does the same thing. It all depends on the success and the feat with which the rifle is aimed.

Several weeks ago Mrs. Christie Partridge, a widow, was made game warden. The trapper works in her district, and although there is a law against trapping beavers, he has disregarded it systematically, placing not unwarranted faith in his "bad man" specialist.

The other morning just as he had set his traps and rebaited them, a was surprised to hear a noise in a jump of bushes behind him. He groined and found himself gazing into the muzzle of a rifle. The butt of the rifle was resting comfortably against Mrs. Christie Partridge's

Up With 'Em'

After while Mrs. Christie Partridge right eye was glancing, much astutely along the barrel.

Up with 'em', the woman said in contempt.

The bad man didn't wait. He ran and with high bows his feet.

For the new game warden, Mr. Partridge, returned quickly. You can understand for trapping beavers. They tell you you are a bad man. What is going to be? Are you going along with me, or are you?

Well, you might say the trapper. It kind of looks like you've got the car's stick and I can't find it here to admit you're wrong. I'm willing to go with you whenever. But I'd be obliged if you wouldn't be quite so careless with that slanting stick.

A little while later the warden her rifle resting lightly in the hollow of her left arm walked into the nearest justice's office preceded by the perfectly good bad man.

The trapper paid a fine and said he reckoned he'd give it up. Light up the creek and take a little Ragged Willie!

INDIANS DECLARED STARVING

Shoshone and Arapahoe Tribes Face Winter Without Money or Supplies—1,600 Are in Need

Chevyenne, Wyo.—The wind never in the great mountain country. Wyo. East of the Shoshone and Arapahoe tribes, square are in a famine. The worst famine that has ever experienced within the borders of the white man.

Already there is suffering in the reservation and when winter comes unless something is done for their relief there will be many deaths from starvation among the tribes.

For the past two years the Indians have been employed by the government on ditch work on the reservation and have been able to subsist on what they earned. The expenditure for this ditch work aggregated about $250,000. The irrigation system is for the Indians, but so far they have raised no crops.

Recently work on the ditches ceased and the Shoshone and Arapahoe, who spent the money so fast or faster than they earned it, are left wholly without resources.

The new sermon case for laymen sold at a special bargain in Denver. This case is the result of patience, the result of much patient toil. Indeed, when I think of the patient waiting involved in the perfecting of this case, I am reminded of Dr. Bob Sawyer's sermon.

"Dr. Bob Sawyer stepped proudly into his ante-room one day. There were quite a number of people there. And Dr. Bob looking from one face to another with complacency said:

"Well, who comes first? Whom been waiting the longest?"

Here doc—that's me," said Solp the tailor rising and flourishing his unpaid bill. I've been waiting over eighteen months!

Spare the Rod

Parents take notice. The advocates of whipping as a means of discipline are accustomed to quote King Solomon as saying: Spare the rod and spoil the child. What Solomon did say was: He that spareth the rod hateth his son. But the word rod in that connection does not necessarily mean corporal punishment. It simply means parental authority and guidance. The same He knows word is used in Psalm xlii where David says: The Lord is my shepherd. I shall not want. His rod and his staff they comfort me. The rod was the symbol of authority and power not a rawhide or a ruler or a bickory stick—Exchange.

A reduction that means saving money in clothes

My Stock of Clothing was bought expecting 15c cotton and cold weather. We are having 7 and 8c cotton, and warm weather. This condition makes it necessary for me to reduce these goods to selling point. Considering that the stock is all new and well selected, I think that 25 per cent reductions in all clothing, overcoats and boys clothing, will move them.

For instance look at these prices.

UNDERWEAR The price will be reduced some on the winter underwear and a few other things.

It is the clothing and overcoats, for men and boys, that I am expecting to sell, rather than carry them over.

TALE OF BURIED GOLD

BULLET MADE SOLDIER FORGET THE PLACE OF HIDING.

Memory Returned Before His Death, and Son Now is Searching for Treasure Concealed Prior to the Civil War.

The story of a wound received in the Civil War which sealed the hiding place of a fortune for more than half a century and of a strange trick of fate which cleared the soldier's memory in the evening of his life was brought to the attention of the Dothan Eagle by J. K. Anderson of New Orleans, who is at the Van Nuys en route to the old placer mining fields of California.

Anderson's father joined in the gold rush and was one of the miners of the "49" days. He located a claim in Placer county near Auburn and New Mexico within a year he had snatched from the river bottoms a fortune. Then the call of the south for soldiers reached him. He buried the gold beneath the adobe blocks of a tavern in the vicinity of his claim.

Anderson says that his father was struck in an engagement with the Union troops by a bullet which tore open his scalp and robbed him of his memory for 50 years. During that time the son says the parent was like a child, with all knowledge of the hiding place of the gold gone. Before he died a year ago his memory of the gold rush returned to him and he was living again in the past that preceded his part in the conflict.

It was during these last moments that the old man told his son and the mother where he had buried what he claimed was a fortune. The son is hurrying to unearth it, possibly, the buried treasure, Anderson said.

"My father said he buried the gold under a corner of an old adobe tavern, patronized by the miners in the early days. This tavern was in Long Valley at a point half way, I have learned, between the present town of Newcastle and Auburn. I have learned through correspondence that a family of the name of Scott occupies the tavern as a farmhouse and that the country around it is devoted to the raising of citrus fruits.

"No one has disturbed the original lines of the building. The adobe blocks are heavy. I have obtained permission from the owners to prosecute my search and will give them a share of my findings. Otherwise I should have to buy the property.

Anderson is a civil engineer. He was engaged by the government for some time to work on the Panama canal, but has left his employment to search for the treasure which he claims his father has hidden in the old placer mining fields of California.—Los Angeles Herald

Scientific Management

One cold winter day some railroad officials, while making an inspection of a large yard, stopped for a moment inside a switchman's shanty to get warm. Among them was a general superintendent who was known to have a penchant for scientific management, and the reduction of expenses. As they were leaving, the switchman asked the traveling yardmaster, whom he knew:

"Now, can you tell me who that man is?"

"That's the general superintendent," the yardmaster replied.

"What do you think of that?" He is a fellow looking man and you never would believe the tales you are after hearing about him."

"What have you heard about him, Mike?" was the curious question.

"Why, they do say that he was at the funeral of Mr. Mitchell's wife and when the six pallbearers came out he raised his hand and said: 'Hold on a minute boys. I think you can get along without two of them.'—Every body's Magazine

His Wife's Accomplishments

"Naturally I am glad that my wife is a good housekeeper. Nevertheless the haunting of her accomplishments becomes somewhat embarrassing at times," said the middle-aged globe trotter.

"Shortly before starting back to America we watched the changing of the royal guards one morning at Buckingham Palace. It was an impressive ceremony. Loyal Britons and sympathetic visitors alike stood in rapt and silent. Presently the new ranks formed and the old guard preceded by the Coldstream band marched away to the barracks. Then my wife spoke:

"Well, said she, 'I'm glad I came. If I hadn't seen it for myself I never would have believed that the queen has such such curlicues just like mine hanging at three of her front windows.'"

MEAT DISHES.

As a variety in the preparation of meats is something the housewife is constantly aiming for, the following will be new to many.

Another Meat.—Cut a pound of lean beef in dice, season with a teaspoonful of salt, an eighth of a teaspoon of sugar and dredge with a tablespoon of flour. Cover closely and broil for at least an hour. Some meat will require more time to be tender. At serving time pour off the gravy that will have gathered, add an equal bulk of water and chicken with a tablespoonful of flour rubbed to a paste in cold water. This is also excellent with the addition of vegetables.

Cannelloni of Beef.—Mix together a pound of uncooked beef chopped fine, the yolk of an egg, a tablespoonful of chopped parsley, two tablespoonfuls of bread crumbs, a teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of pepper the juice of half an onion, and a teaspoon of lemon juice. Form into a roll six inches long and bake thirty minutes. Baste every five minutes with butter melted in a cup of boiling water. Serve with tomato sauce poured around it.

Paprika Schnitzel.—Cut two pounds of thick real steak into small pieces, roll in seasoned flour and fry brown in fat from several slices of salt pork. Remove the meat from the pan and add two tablespoonfuls of flour to the remaining fat. Brown lightly and pour in gradually the strained liquor from a can of tomato soup. Add a slice each of onion and carrot, a bay leaf and a bit of rice. Then return the meat to the pan, cover closely and simmer three-fourths of an hour. When done to taste, the meat is ready. Serve with white rice and paprika and strain on a platter.

Chicken With Macaroni.—Fry or broil chicken on skin and bone. Cook this and simmer till very tender. Cook macaroni or spaghetti to make enough to fill milk with cooled chicken. Add, any gravy that has been left over. If not a rich one, add a little cream or milk. Cover with buttered bread crumbs and bake on all hot and well browned.

Some Oil Spouter.
The mammoth gusher of the Pennsylvanian interests in the Petro de Llanos field, state of Vera Cruz, Mex., was recently allowed to pump for 20 minutes for officials of the Texas company and the Gulf Refining Company. According to the Mining and Scientific Press, the gusher was opened for the first time since the well was brought under control and a column of oil shot into the air to a height of 100 feet. The flow was estimated at 100,000 barrels daily. With the possible exception of the Duxbury gusher, which burst out in 1902 in the state of Texas, it is the largest of the oil gushers.

You hear a good deal now-a-days about "guaranteed" merchandise; especially shoes.

Sometimes it's a guarantee that the shoes are made of good leather, with a lot of detail about the way they're made. Selz shoes are guaranteed to be satisfactory to you. What do you care what the shoes are made of if they're not satisfactory to you.

Sometimes it's a guarantee that the shoes shall wear a certain length of time, Selz shoes are Guaranteed to be satisfactory to you. What difference does it make how long they last, if they're not satisfactory. The longer dissatisfaction lasts, the worse off you are.

Selz shoes are guaranteed to be satisfactory; and that means your satisfaction, not ours or Selz. It means good leather of course; poor leather wouldn't be satisfactory. It means long service, of course a shoe that wears out too soon isn't satisfactory. It means correct style and fit you wouldn't be satisfied with anything less.
